

Nido's Global Teacher Fellowship Program is designed to facilitate the career development of new teachers who are looking for independent school teaching positions in the U.S. and/or international schools. Our Global Teacher Fellowship Program supports Nido's vision of being "an open and dynamic global education center" that serves as "a hub of knowledge creation and dissemination for Chile and the world."

We are looking for recent college or graduate program graduates to serve as teaching fellows in the high school. Successful candidates will demonstrate outstanding academic and personal records.

Fellows will teach part time, observe a master teacher, meet regularly with an instructional coach to plan lessons and reflect on progress, attend group workshops about teaching and learning, attend divisional and school wide trainings, and contribute to the school's co-curricular program. In exchange, the school will provide an educational immersion experience whereby aspiring teachers will develop their skills and practices quickly. The school will also provide local health insurance, visa assistance, a living stipend, and furnished housing with paid utilities in a shared apartment that is walking distance to school.
